

Teacher Notes and Background Information

- Desert - a dry region with little rainfall (usually less than 10 inches of rain per year)
- The geography in the Sonoran desert is quite interesting. The Sonoran Desert is located in two states, Arizona and California, and two countries, Mexico and United States. The Sonoran Desert's location is at latitude 25° to 33° North and longitude 105° to 118° West.
- The Sonoran Desert is one of the wettest deserts. When it rains, the desert is damp, and the air is cool. When it has no rain, the desert is really dry. The Sonoran Desert can be very hot. When the desert is windy, the sand gets picked up and tossed around which creates a sand storm. Or if the wind is blowing in a certain kind of way, it creates a whirlwind or dust devil. These mini-tornados move across the desert floor, and they most often occur in hot weather. The desert valley can be hot while up in the mountains it is cool. Some mountains are even snow-covered. The mountains in the Sonoran Desert are Mount Kofa and Mount Catalina. Mount Catalina receives most of the snow.
- The rivers that flow through the desert are the Colorado River and the Gila River. The Salton Sea, the Gulf of California and the Pacific Ocean are bodies of water next to the Sonoran Desert.
