Cause and Effect Worksheet

When looking for cause and effect answers, keep in mind that every action, event or effect has a cause. For example, people settle near water and on flat land so that they can grow crops.

Think about what geographic features can cause the effect of large groups of lights.

Expository Essay Instructions

An expository essay explains your ideas. Remember to include a topic sentence, at least 5 detail sentences, and a final concluding sentence. Write a paragraph about what the lights and their location might mean. Include the following cause and effect ideas:

- Where are the lights located?
- Why are they located there?
- Keep in mind how geographic features can affect settlement.
- Do you see any patterns when looking at the location of the lights?
- What can you conclude about the location of the lights?
