Overview

The primary grades are a fertile environment for planting the seeds of acceptance and tolerance. Fostering curiosity and understanding about other cultures opens the door to questions and expressions of viewpoints which will promote respect for the diversity of cultures. Nina Bonita gives a natural opening to discussion of diversity in the world.

Purpose

In this lesson, students will map the story of a rabbit that doesn’t like the color of his fur and how he tries to change his color. Students will make connections to the diversity of people in the world and summarize the story.

Key Vocabulary

prejudice – a dislike for a person because of their race, gender, or religion
Nina Bonita: Culture and Beauty

tolerance – respecting the beliefs or differences of others continent - any one of the seven largest areas of land on the earth’s surface beach – the shore of a body of water; usually sandy or pebbly blackberry – small black or very dark purple fruit that grows on a bush

Materials
- Nina Bonita by Ana Maria Machado
- South America’s Capital Cities map
- Drawing paper
- Crayons or colored pencils
- Vocabulary Cards

Objectives
The student will be able to:
- Locate Brazil on a map of South America.
- Construct a map of the settings in Nina Bonita.
- Write a summary including the beginning, middle, and end of Nina Bonita.

Procedures

SESSION ONE
1. Project the cover of the book, Nina Bonita - Discuss name of book, the author, and illustrator. Ask the following questions:
   - What do you think this book is going to be about?
   - What do you notice about the girl on the cover?
   - What country do you think the girl might be from since her name is Nina Bonita? (Preparation: Links to Background, Grouping: Whole Class)
2. Explain that this book was originally written in the Portuguese language about a girl in Brazil.
3. Project the South America map and point out Brazil. (Scaffolding: Comprehensible Input)
4. Distribute copies of the map of South America. Ask children to color Brazil in red. (Scaffolding: Guided Practice)
5. Project and read Nina Bonita. Ask students to pay special attention to all of the places that the rabbit visits. As they hear a new location, they need to identify it for the class. (Preparation: Links to Past

SESSION TWO
1. Reread Nina Bonita. Project the Vocabulary Cards as the words come up in the book. Discuss the terms. Place the Vocabulary Card on the Word Wall. Some words will come up in the discussion of the book. Save these and project as needed later. (Scaffolding: Comprehensible Input)
2. Begin a discussion with students about their experiences or observations of tolerance/intolerance because of skin color. Ask the following questions:
   - Does Nina Bonita like the color of her skin? Why or why not?
   - Does the rabbit like the color of his skin? Why or why not?
   - What do you think about your skin color?
   - Why does Nina make up reasons why she is black?
   - Do you think the rabbit feels differently about skin color at the end of the book? Why? (Preparation: Links to Background, Application: Meaningful)
3. Tell students that the school librarian is considering ordering Nina Bonita for the school.
Nina Bonita: Culture and Beauty

library. She hasn't read the book and wants students to give her a brief summary before she orders it. Encourage students to use descriptive words and to make the beginning, middle, and end of the book very clear so that the librarian will order it. Have students refer to their maps to illustrate the beginning, middle, and end of the story. (Integrated Processes: Writing, Assessment: Written, Independent)

Assessment

Geography
The map can be graded in the following way: one point for each location on the map or 8 points, 3 points for using appropriate symbols, 2 points for title and author, and 2 points for neatness and legibility. Mastery will be considered at least 12 points out of the 15 possible.

ELA
Student summaries can be graded for having a beginning - tells about rabbit’s desire to be black (3 points), a middle - tells about ways that Nina says she became black or rabbit trying those method (4 points), and end - tells about rabbit marrying black rabbit and having family (3 points). Mastery will be considered a score of 7 points or higher.

Extensions

Discuss the similarities and differences between Nina’s community and that of the students. Draw attention to houses, stores, landscape, musical instruments, types of gathering, clothing, etc. Make a Venn diagram using two hula-hoops taped to the chalkboard. Record student responses on sentence strips and place them in the hula-hoops.

List all of the similes in the story on chart paper. Students illustrate and label them. Ask children to choose three, e.g., eyes like olives, curly hair like unwoven threads of the night, skin like a panther in the rain, etc. Students can draw a picture of the simile and write, for instance, “Nina Bonita has eyes like black olives.”

Read Verdi by Janelle Cannon. (A story about a snake who tried many methods to attempt to stall the inevitable change of color of his own skin.) Have students compare and contrast Verdi to Nina Bonita.
